Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Sunday 11 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Feeling cold with wintry showers after a frosty start.

Today:
After a bright, but frosty and in places icy start, it will soon cloud over bringing wintry showers alongside the occasional sunny spell. These showers becoming heavy at times during the afternoon, especially over the Pennines. Cold despite light winds. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Tonight:
Turning clear and dry in another cold night. However, thickening cloud will bring patchy rain into the far west and southwest, falling as snow over higher ground. Widespread frost forming. Minimum temperature -3 deg C (27 deg F).

Monday:
Cloud and patchy rain with some hill snow will give way to bright spells and isolated showers towards the southwest. Elsewhere after a sunny start, isolated showers developing. Feeling cold. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Cloudy with scattered showers on Tuesday with the occasional sunny spell too. Dry with plenty of sunshine on Wednesday and Thursday. Gradually becoming milder.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.